Induction Policy

MAY 2019

NEXT REVIEW DATE: MAY 2021

Staff Responsible: Deputy Headteacher

Introduction

This policy has been specifically tailored to meet the needs of all adults who are coming to work at Pens Meadow School. It is flexible in that it comprises a programme of activities capable of being applied to adults whose experience and qualifications may vary and who may hold differing positions within school. The difference in role and position will be reflected in the recommended activities and record forms.

Aims

This policy aims to:

- Ensure that all relevant policies and documents including the schools Safeguarding policy, staff code of conduct and part 1 of Keeping Children Safe in Education (Sept 2018) have been received and that the individual understands the content within each
- Provide appropriate information about the school, its pupils, and procedures/routines to ensure a smooth transition into the staff team;
- Ensure that all adults working at Pens Meadow School are fully conversant with the aims of the school and understand the values underpinning these aims;
- Ensure that all adults are confident in asking for and receiving support

Induction Process

Newly Qualified Teacher (NQT)

It is a statutory requirement that all teachers obtaining Qualified Teacher Status (QTS) must undergo an induction period of three terms or equivalent if part time, during which they will undertake a programme of monitoring and support alongside an assessment of performance in line with the new Teachers' Standards from September 2012.

The Teachers' Standards which the Newly Qualified Teacher (NQT) will be required to meet will cover areas such as planning, teaching, classroom management, recording and reporting and professional requirements.

All NQTs enter the profession in possession of a Career Entry and Development Profile (CEDP), in which they have highlighted their strengths and specified areas for further professional development. Since the CEDP will be used to set targets for induction and professional development, the programme must be individualised to ensure that the NQT's needs are met. NQTs should have a 90% timetable to allow the induction programme to take place.

An NQT is not to be given a job description which makes unreasonable demands. The NQT should normally serve the Induction Period in a post which:

- Does not demand teaching outside the age range and subject(s) for which the NQT has been trained.
- Does not present the NQT on a day-to-day basis with acute or especially demanding discipline problems.
- Involves regular teaching of the same classes.
- Involves similar planning, teaching and assessment processes to those in which teachers working in substantive posts in the school are engaged.
- Does not involve additional non-teaching responsibilities without the provision of appropriate preparation and support

Along with the Head, an Appropriate Body (Dudley LA) is responsible for an NQT's training and supervision during induction. It is the Appropriate Body which decides whether an NQT has met the Induction Standards based on the Head's recommendation.

The Professional Mentor will primarily deliver the Induction Programme. However, the relevant TLR will be largely responsible for the induction of the new teacher into departmental procedures and practices and it is envisaged that the TLR will also be involved in the gathering of evidence for assessment, e.g. via lesson observation. In addition, it is hoped that other members of the department may feel able to offer support as unofficial mentors to the new teachers.

The framework for the induction programme is laid down in the Induction Standards from 1 September 2012. Prior to taking up the appointment, the NQT will make one or more initial visits to the school during which the new teacher meets with the Professional Mentor and the relevant TLR for an introduction to the school, department, and induction procedure respectively. The NQT will be provided with the schools Safeguarding policy, staff code of conduct and a copy of Keeping Children Safe in Education (Sept 2016).

The induction programme has a different focus for each of the three terms:

- First Term. Support will concentrate on issues fundamental to the development of good classroom practice using the targets set out in the new teacher's CEDP and issues raised in discussion with the Professional Mentor or other members of staff. In terms of assessment, the focus will be on the extent to which the NQT is meeting the Teachers' Standards as laid down in September 2012.
- Second Term. While the Professional Mentor offers continuing support in issues concerning the new teacher, the focus for assessment will be on progress towards the Teachers' Standards. Third Term. The focus will be upon the successful fulfilment of the Teachers' Standards as well as upon the NQT's further professional development.

As the emphasis throughout is upon the NQT's individual needs, the induction programme must necessarily remain flexible in terms of the issues raised and discussed. However, all NQTs will be encouraged to continue to develop their skills of self-evaluation, to take opportunities to observe more experienced staff at work, and to attend any relevant INSET available.

Each NQT will meet with their Mentor monthly.

The Professional Mentor will observe the NQT teaching during each term. These observations will be followed by review meetings at the end of each of the induction cycles. The evidence gathered from these meetings and any observations carried out by other members of staff will be used as the basis for a summative assessment of the NQT. The NQT will be provided with copies of all records.

At the end of the final induction term, the assessments made by the Induction Tutor and other staff will provide the basis for the Head's recommendation of satisfactory completion of the Induction Period.

Career Entry and Development Profile

Permanent Staff

Prior to any appointment, candidates are invited to visit Pens Meadow School and will be provided with information in the form of a school prospectus. Candidates are also encouraged to visit the school website for additional information.

Once appointed, staff may visit the school to meet with their line manager, before taking up the post. On beginning their new appointment, they will be allocated a named induction mentor who will be responsible for the induction process under the overall supervision of the induction co-ordinator (DHT). They will also be allocated a named pastoral lead.

The induction programme comprises of four key elements:

1. Introduction to our school expectations, procedures and documentation including familiarisation with key legislation (Appendix 1)

All new staff are given an induction folder which contains copies of key policies and documents used within school (Staff Code of Conduct). This folder also contains articles and background reading on several conditions/syndromes. All new staff meet with either the head teacher or deputy head teacher on introduction to ensure they are fully understand expectations as outlined in the staff code of conduct.

2. Meetings with key personnel

The aim of these meetings is to get to know and understand the roles and responsibilities of other people within school and the contribution they make. It also enables new staff to gain a greater understanding of their individual roles and the part they can play in promoting the school's ethos and culture.

3. Life in the Classroom

Due to the complex nature of all of the pupils at Pens Meadow School, it is vital that new staff fully familiarise themselves with individual pupil clipboards. These contain a variety of information about pupil communication strategies, behaviour, health, risk assessments and school targets.

4. Regular meetings to evaluate progress

A probationary period is usually for 6 months and is a contractual obligation for those employees covered within the scope of this policy. It is a period whereby the performance, attitude and conduct of a new member of staff is monitored and reviewed to ensure that they meet the standards required of them under their contract of employment. Failure to monitor and review the employee during the probationary period will result in the period being null and void for dismissal purposes.

The way in which performance including capability, attitude and conduct is assessed will vary depending on the responsibilities of each employee's job, grade and work environment but will normally include:

- Quality of work performance
- Quantity of work
- Flexibility of the employee
- Customer care attitude and performance
- Commitment to safeguarding children / child protection procedures
- Attendance, timekeeping and health record
- Reliability
- Relationship with other employees
- Initiative
- Conduct and behaviour
- Observance of appropriate Health and Safety policies and procedures

A probationary period includes 3 formal review meetings with the employee and their immediate line manager.

Long Term Supply/Student/Volunteer Induction

In accordance with statutory guidelines, all staff, including temporary staff and volunteers, are provided with induction training that includes: the school's Safeguarding Policy, the staff Code of Conduct, the identity of the Designated Safeguarding Lead and a copy of Part One of Keeping Children Safe in Education (KCSIE 2018) (Appendix 2).

Pens Meadow School encourages a variety of people including ex-pupils to return as volunteers to continue to develop their work-related learning skills. Where a volunteer's level of cognition is such that they would be unable to read, process and understand the induction paperwork, then we request that this is signed on their behalf by an advocate (parent, PA etc.).

All Other Adults including short term supply/work experience

All other adults working in school are expected to adhere to the school safeguarding policy and procedures including following the school code of conduct. A 'meet and greet' session takes place on arrival into school, where these expectations are shared (Appendix 3). A member of staff gives a tour of the building and an overview of class procedures and processes. 5

Governor Induction

Newly appointed governors receive general information from Dudley MBC Governance regarding their role and responsibilities.

They also receive a copy of a Handbook for School Governance that is tailored specifically for Pens Meadow School Governors. (This forms part of the Financial Management Standards in Schools and a copy can be obtained from the School Business Manager.)

The Chair of Governors is responsible for the induction of new governors.
